HIGHLIGHTS

INDOOR: Wheating helped the Ducks to their second-straight NCAA championship in the distance medley relay with an anchor 1600-meter split of 4:01.23 ... In 2009, Wheating ran the 800-meter leg of the DMR ... Wheating took runner-up (1:48.40) in the NCAA at 800 meters after being caught at the tape by Virginia frosh Robby Andrews ... Wheating started his season on February 13 with a the best collegiate mark of the season, 1:46.36 (OT), at the Husky Classic in Seattle ... at the MPSF Championships, Wheating won the mile crown with a 3:58.20 (OT) clocking on that same track in Seattle ... USTFCCCA West Region Track Athlete of the Year.

OUTDOOR: At the NCAA Championships, Wheating ran four races in four days to capture national crowns in the 800 and 1500 meters, an accomplishment only matched four other times in the 89-year history of the NCAA Championships and for the first time since 1984 ... Wheating (1:45.69) used his "kick" earlier in the competition than usual in the 800 finals, covering the final 200 meters in 26.20 seconds, holding off the surging Andrews (1:46.83) who would place second despite entering the final curve in last place ... with the victory, Wheating became the first American since 1994 to defend an NCAA 800-meter crown ... Wheating (3:47.94) would lead a final Duck charge to the finish line in the national final of the 1500m as Oregon claimed the first 1-2-3 NCAA sweep in the history of the event ... Wheating would finish the season with the second-fastest collegiate time in the 800 (1:45.69, NCAA final) and the best collegiate time of 2010 in the 1500 - 3:37.52 recorded in being the first qualifier from the West portion of the NCAA's quarterfinals ... earlier in the season, Wheating won his third straight Pac-10 title at 800 meters in 1:47.77, becoming the first to win three-straight conference titles in the event since Oregon's David Mack (1980-82). Wheating also ran a leg of the Ducks' 4x400 that finished fourth at the conference meet; all in helping Oregon win their fourth-straight league crown ... Wheating opened the season at the Penn Relays, where he anchored Oregon to a win in the distance medley relay (9:30.69) and a second-place finish in the 4x800 meter relay (7:15.55) ... USTFCCCA National Track Athlete of the Year ... Pac-10 Men's Track Athlete of the Year.
